

OBITUARY

✠
LATE MR. M. R. WOULFE,
ABBEEFEALE.

The death of Mr. Maurice R. Woulfe, of "The Glen," Cratloe, Abbeyfeale, at the age of 74, is very much regretted throughout West Limerick. Mr. Woulfe, prior to his retirement, had occupied a prominent position in the Inland Revenue for nearly 40 years, in various parts of England and Scotland, and had been for some ten years associated with Charlelizod, Dublin. He was a member of one of the oldest families in West Limerick, and a fluent Gaelic speaker. The interment took place in the family burial plot at Athea, where the burial service was read by Rev. W. Fenton, P.P., assisted by Rev. Father Costelloe, C.C.

LATE MR. T. O'CONNOR,
CLASHMEALCON.

At a special meeting of the Committee of the Ballinascreena Co-operative Creamery, the members present being:—Messrs. John Mahony, Daniel Quinlan, John Broderick, Lawrence O'Connor, Pat Horgan, Pat Peirymann, John T. O'Mahony, Cois. O'Connor, Patk. Griffin, Patk. O'Connor, John M. Leen, Thos. O'Connor, Thos. Diggins, Cois. O'Sullivan, Wm. Diggins, Thos. O'Donoghue, Patk. Quill, John Burke, Ml. Casey, Wm. Leen, Ml. Broderick.

The following resolution was passed:—That we, the members of the Committee of this Society, tender to Mr. James O'Connor, our esteemed and respected chairman, our sympathy in his sad bereavement, on the early demise of his beloved son. We also tender the same vote of sympathy to all the O'Connor family collectively.

Mr. Daniel Quinlan said he felt extremely sorry that they were called together in connection with this sad business. He had known Tommy O'Connor since childhood. It was only a few years since he left his teens and developed to be an active young man, a noble and spirited worker, who was well versed in all the modern requirements of agriculture. A few months ago he found his robust health failing, and he faced his end bravely and smilingly. He had personally witnessed his Christian acceptance of suffering and his fervent devotion showed in him the spark of the hero. He was sorry that his untimely end was to his father and the members of his family household a grievous & bitter trial & well indeed, might his two sisters deplore him, for to them he was a loving brother.
